- (2) In deciding what vocational rehabilitation is appropriate for the claimant to achieve the purpose of vocational rehabilitation under section 80,—

 - (c) the vocational rehabilitation would be appropriate in the circumstances.

- (a) a claimant who is receiving weekly compensation—
 - (i) loses that entitlement immediately; and

- (1) The Corporation may determine the vocational independence of—
 - (a) a claimant who is receiving weekly compensation:
 - (b) a claimant who may have an entitlement to weekly compensation.
- (2) The Corporation determines a claimant's vocational independence by requiring the claimant to participate in an assessment carried out—
 - (a) for the purpose in subsection (3); and
 - (b) in accordance with sections 108 to 110 and clauses 24 to 29 of Schedule 1; and
 - (c) at the Corporation's expense.
- (3) The purpose of the assessment is to ensure that comprehensive vocational rehabilitation, as identified in a claimant's individual rehabilitation plan, has been completed and that it has focused on the claimant's needs, and addressed any injury-related barriers, to enable the claimant—

- (a) to maintain or obtain employment; or
- (b) to regain or acquire vocational independence.

108 Assessment of claimant's vocational independence

- (1) An assessment of a claimant's vocational independence must consist of—
 - (a) an occupational assessment under clause 25 of Schedule 1; and
 - (b) a medical assessment under clause 28 of Schedule 1.
- (2) The purpose of an occupational assessment is to—
 - (a) consider the progress and outcomes of vocational rehabilitation carried out under the claimant's individual rehabilitation plan; and
 - (b) consider whether the types of work (whether available or not) identified in the claimant's individual rehabilitation plan are still suitable for the claimant because they match the skills that the claimant has gained through education, training, or experience.
- (3) The purpose of a medical assessment is to provide an opinion for the Corporation as to whether, having regard to the claimant's personal injury, the claimant has the capacity to undertake any type of work identified in the occupational assessment and reflected in the claimant's individual rehabilitation plan.

Compare: 1998 No 114 s 94

109 When claimant's vocational independence to be assessed

- (1) The Corporation may determine the claimant's vocational independence at such reasonable intervals as the Corporation considers appropriate.
- (2) However, the Corporation must determine the claimant's vocational independence again if—

- (3) The claimant may give the Corporation information to assist the Corporation to reach a belief under subsection (2)(b).

 - (b) state that the claimant is required to participate in the assessment; and
 - (c) state the consequences of not doing so; and
 - (d) state the claimant's right to be accompanied by another person during the assessment.
- (3) The Corporation must not require the claimant to participate in an assessment—
 - (a) unless the claimant is likely to achieve vocational independence; and
 - (b) until the claimant has completed any vocational rehabilitation that the Corporation was liable to provide under his or her individual rehabilitation plan.

Compare: 1998 No 114 s 93

111 How determination that claimant has vocational independence is to be regarded

If the Corporation determines under section 107 that a claimant has vocational independence, the determination is to be regarded as—

- (a) a determination under section 103 that the claimant no longer has an incapacity for employment, in relation to a claimant to whom that section applies, but section 112 applies instead of section 104(a)(i); or
- (b) a determination under section 105 that the claimant is able to engage in work for which he or she is suited by reason of experience, education, or training, or any combination of those things, in relation to a claimant to whom that section applies, but section 112 applies instead of section 106(a)(i).

112 Claimant with vocational independence loses entitlement to weekly compensation

Compare: 1998 No 114 s 91

113 Claimant who no longer has vocational independence regains entitlement to weekly compensation

- (1) If the Corporation determines under section 109 that a claimant no longer has vocational independence, the claimant regains his or her entitlement to weekly compensation, and the regained entitlement starts from the date of the determination or an earlier date determined by the Corporation.
- (2) On regaining entitlement to weekly compensation, the claimant is entitled to it at the higher of the following rates:
 - (a) the rate of compensation to which the claimant was entitled when he or she lost the entitlement, adjusted for the intervening period in the manner provided in section 115; or
 - (b) the rate of compensation to which the claimant is entitled under Part 2 of Schedule 1, calculated at the time that he or she regains the entitlement.

Interest on late payments of weekly compensation

114 Payment of interest when Corporation makes late payment of weekly compensation

- (1) The Corporation is liable to pay interest on any payment of weekly compensation to which the claimant is entitled, if the Corporation has not made the payment within 1 month after the Corporation has received all information necessary to enable the Corporation to calculate and make the payment.
- (2) The Corporation is liable to pay the interest—
 - (a) for the period from the date on which payment should have been made to the date on which it is made (the liability period); and
 - (b) at the interest rate or rates for the liability period.
- (3) The period described in subsection (2)(a)—
 - (a) does not include the day on which the payment should have been made; and
 - (b) includes the day on which the payment is made.
- (4) In this section, interest rate means the base rate plus the premium where—
 - (a) the base rate is—
 - (i) for any day on or after 1 July in a year to the close of 30 June in the year that follows, the average of the 6 observations for the retail 6-month term deposit rate most recently published by the Reserve Bank of New Zealand before 30 April in that year; or
 - (ii) if another base rate has been prescribed for the purposes of this section, that base rate:

- (b) the premium is—
- (i) 0.95%; or
 - (ii) if another premium has been prescribed for the purposes of this section, that premium.
- (5) The interest rate (as defined in subsection (4)) is a per annum simple interest rate.

Example 1

Calculation where same interest rate applies for whole liability period

The Corporation is liable to make a payment of $100 on 15 November 2018 but does not do so until 15 March 2019. The liability period, for which the Corporation is liable to pay interest on this amount, is therefore 120 days.

For the liability period, the 6 most recent observations for the retail 6-month term deposit rate published by the Reserve Bank of New Zealand* before 30 April 2018 are, for the purposes of this example, assumed to be 3.25%, 3.35%, 3.35%, 3.38%, 3.31%, and 3.31%, being the published rates for the months from October 2017 to March 2018. The average of these 6 observations is 3.325%. This is the base rate.

The base rate and the premium, namely 0.95% in this case, is 4.275%. This is the interest rate that must be used to calculate how much interest the Corporation must pay, in addition to the overdue amount, on 15 March 2019. The total interest payable may be calculated using the equation—

$$I = P (rt)$$

where—

I is the total amount payable

P is the amount of the payment that should have been made

r is the interest rate

t is the liability period expressed in years

$$I = 100 (0.04275 \times 120/365) = 1.4055$$

$$I = $1.41$$

*See “B3 Retail interest rates on lending and deposits” at <http://www.rbnz.govt.nz>

Example 2

Calculation where interest rate changes during liability period

The Corporation is liable to make a payment of $100 on 15 May 2018 but does not do so until 15 November 2018. The liability period, for which the Corporation is liable to pay interest on this amount, is therefore 184 days.

The base rate for the 46 days from 15 May 2018 to 30 June 2018 is the average of the 6 most recent observations for the retail 6-month term deposit rate published by the Reserve Bank of New Zealand before 30 April 2017. For the purposes of this example, these are assumed to be 3.15%, 3.21%, 3.21%, 3.28%, 3.25%, and 3.25%, being the published rates for the months from October 2016 to March 2017. The average of these 6 observations is 3.225%.

The base rate plus the premium, namely 0.95% in this case, is 4.175%. This is the interest rate that must be used for the first 46 days of the liability period.

The base rate for the remaining 138 days of the liability period, starting on 1 July 2018 and ending on 15 November 2018, is the average of the 6 most recent observations for the retail 6-month term deposit rate published by the Reserve Bank of New Zealand before 30 April 2018. For the purposes of this example, these are assumed to be 3.25%, 3.35%, 3.35%, 3.38%, 3.31%, and 3.31%, being the published rates for the months from October 2017 to March 2018. The average of these 6 observations is 3.325%.

The base rate plus the premium, namely 0.95% in this case, is 4.275%. This is the interest rate that must be used for the remaining 138 days of the liability period.

The total interest payable may be calculated using the equation—

$$I = P(r_1t_1 + r_2t_2)$$

where—

- I is the total interest payable
- P is the amount of the interest that should have been paid
- r_1 is the interest rate for the 46 days of the liability period up to 30 June 2018
- t_1 is the portion of the liability period up to 30 June 2018 expressed in years
- r_2 is the interest rate for the 138 days of the liability period starting on 1 July 2018
- t_2 is the portion of the liability period starting on 1 July 2018 expressed in years

$$I = 100(0.04175 \times 46/365 + 0.04275 \times 138/365) = 2.1425$$

$$I = $2.14$$

 - (f) any audit previously undertaken of the employer's safety management practices:
 - (g) any international information that is relevant to the New Zealand situation.

179 Process for Corporation to decide whether to require audit

- (1) The process in this section is initiated by the Corporation giving the employer a notice stating—

- (a) that the Corporation is satisfied of the matter specified in section 178(1); and
 - (b) the Corporation's reasons for its statement under paragraph (a); and
 - (c) that the purpose of the process is to decide whether or not the employer's safety management practices should be audited under section 180; and
 - (d) that the Corporation and employer are required to enter into a dialogue about the standard of the employer's safety management practices; and
 - (e) that failure to reach the standard required by the audit or to allow the audit to take place may result in an upwards adjustment of the employer's levies.
- (2) After the notice is given, the Corporation and employer must enter into a dialogue about the standard of the employer's safety management practices.
 - (3) As part of the dialogue, consideration must be given to whether—
 - (a) the employer should initiate a self-audit of its safety management practices;
 - (b) the Corporation should assist in such an audit;
 - (c) the Corporation should assist the employer to understand the need to improve, and the ways to improve, the employer's safety management practices.
 - (4) As part of the dialogue, the Corporation must give the employer a reasonable opportunity to explain and comment on the health and safety situation in the employer's workplace.
 - (5) When the Corporation and the employer have concluded the dialogue, the Corporation must—
 - (a) decide, on the basis of information it has gathered, whether the employer's safety management practices should be audited under section 180; and
 - (b) notify the employer of the decision.

180 Effect of audit or refusal to allow audit

- (1) An audit allowed by an employer must be conducted in accordance with a tool approved by the Minister under section 175(4), which tool may be specially designed for the purposes of this section.
- (2) If the employer refuses to allow an audit to take place, or the audit cannot be completed in a reasonable time because the employer fails to participate or because of the way in which the employer participates in the audit, the Corporation may adjust the employer's levies upwards without the audit being completed.
- (3) If the employer reaches the standard required by the audit tool, the Corporation must not adjust the employer's levies upwards.

- (4) If the employer fails to reach the standard required by the audit tool, the Corporation must adjust the employer's levies upwards in accordance with regulations made for the purposes of section 175.
- (5) To avoid doubt, if an employer whose levies have been adjusted upwards subsequently does reach the standard required by the audit tool and the levies are to be re-adjusted, the levies must be adjusted back to the standard rate for an employer in that industry or risk class.

Section 180(1): amended, on 1 April 2007, by section 13(1) of the Injury Prevention, Rehabilitation, and Compensation Amendment Act 2007 (2007 No 8).

 - (a) an estimate of the person's income, net of business costs; and
 - (b) an estimate of the cost of any required replacement labour; and
 - (c) such other matters as may be relevant to the particular case.

 - (f) any other agreed terms.
- (4) The agreement has no effect in respect of any personal injury suffered before the date the agreement is entered into.
- (5) If the self-employed person fails to pay any levy by the time payment is due under the agreement, the agreement has no effect.
- (6) If the self-employed person ceases to be a self-employed person while the agreement has effect, the agreement ceases to have effect as from the time of that change in status.
- (7) Any person who is dissatisfied with a determination of the Corporation under subsection (1) may seek a review by the Corporation of that determination within 3 months after the person is notified of the determination, and Part 5 applies with any necessary modifications.

Part 9

Miscellaneous provisions

Situations where previous insurer involved

294 Scope and purpose of sections 295 to 297

- (1) Sections 295 to 297 apply in any case where a claimant is receiving, or is entitled to receive, weekly compensation from an insurer (within the meaning of section 341(1), but not including the Corporation) and suffers a personal injury covered by this Act after the commencement of this Part (the subsequent injury).
- (2) The purpose of sections 295 to 297 is to—
 - (a) ensure that the claimant receives all necessary and appropriate entitlements for the personal injury covered by this Act (the subsequent injury) and the personal injury that gave rise to the entitlement to receive the weekly compensation (the previous injury); and
 - (b) ensure that those entitlements are provided without delay and, as appropriate, continuously; and
 - (c) provide a framework within which the insurer and the Corporation can determine the responsibility to provide entitlements, both from the point of view of taking responsibility for the rehabilitation of the claimant and from a financial point of view; and
 - (d) recognise that appropriate contributions depend on the extent to which each injury contributed to the need for the entitlements or some of them.

295 Obligation to provide entitlements where subsequent injury occurs

- (1) If a subsequent injury occurs while the previous injury still gives rise to an entitlement to weekly compensation for the claimant, the following obligations continue or arise:
 - (a) neither the insurer nor the Corporation may reduce the rate of weekly compensation or independence allowance payable after the subsequent injury solely because of the subsequent injury;
 - (b) the insurer must continue to provide any rehabilitation (including treatment in respect of the previous injury) that it was providing, unless the occurrence of the subsequent injury makes that impracticable;
 - (c) the Corporation must provide any treatment in accordance with this Act required as a result of the subsequent injury;
 - (d) the Corporation must ensure that the claimant receives any other entitlements, whether arising from the subsequent injury or the previous injury;
 - (e) unless the Corporation is satisfied that the subsequent injury does not have a material impact on entitlements from the previous injury, the insurer and the Corporation must jointly consider the situation arising from the fact that there have been 2 personal injuries to the claimant and seek to reach an agreement on the appropriate mix of obligations they will have in respect of the claimant's entitlements, both in terms of managing the claimant's claims and rehabilitation and in terms of financial responsibility for the claimant's entitlements.

- (2) In seeking to reach agreement under subsection (1)(e), the insurer and the Corporation must be guided by the purpose set out in section 294(2).
- (3) An agreement under subsection (1)(e)—
 - (a) either—
 - (i) must normally include provision for one of the parties to take sole management responsibility for the claims in return for certain payments by the other; or
 - (ii) may include provision for the parties to share management of the claims, but only if it is necessary for the claimant's successful rehabilitation and it does not unreasonably inconvenience the claimant; and
 - (b) must include provision for the operation of the agreement to be reviewed from time to time to ensure that it continues to properly reflect the best interests of the claimant; and
 - (c) must include provision for allocation of costs of any entitlements already provided after the subsequent injury but before the agreement is reached.
- (4) If the claimant wishes to seek review under Part 5 of a decision by the insurer or the Corporation, in relation to either the previous injury or the subsequent injury, both the insurer and the Corporation have the right to be present and be heard at the review.
- (5) Despite the Privacy Act 1993, both the insurer and the Corporation must exchange personal information about the claimant necessary to enable them to reach an appropriate agreement and to provide entitlements.

296 Failure to reach agreement

- (1) If the insurer and the Corporation are unable to reach an agreement under section 295(1)(e) within 3 months of the subsequent injury being suffered, they must jointly engage a mediator in an endeavour to reach an agreement.
- (2) If the insurer and the Corporation are still unable to reach an agreement under section 295(1)(e) at the conclusion of the mediation, either party may apply to the District Court for a determination as to how the claimant's entitlements should be managed and paid for.
- (3) Any application to the District Court under this section must be made to the District Court specified in regulations for that purpose and must be made in the prescribed manner.

- (4) In determining an application under this section, the District Court must have regard to the purpose set out in section 294(2) and must make a determination about which party or parties is or are liable to provide or manage the claimant's entitlements in respect of both the previous injury and the subsequent injury, and in doing so must incorporate any matters that have already been agreed between the parties.
- (5) A determination of the District Court may allocate responsibility on a specified basis to either the insurer and the Corporation or to both, including in relation to entitlements that have already been provided and in relation to entitlements that are to be provided.
- (6) If satisfied that either the previous injury or the subsequent injury is, or was for a particular period, wholly or substantially causing the claimant's ongoing incapacity or the claimant's need for ongoing entitlements, the District Court may in its determination direct accordingly that the insurer or the Corporation must bear all of the responsibilities for entitlements from a specified time or for a specified period.
- (7) In making a determination under this section, the District Court must determine the matter according to the substantial merits of the situation, without regard to minor matters.
- (8) If the circumstances of the claimant change and the parties are unable to reach agreement about any changes to their responsibilities, either party may apply to the District Court by originating application for further directions in accordance with this section.

297 Entitlements not affected by court direction

In making a determination under section 296, the District Court must not—

- (a) direct the Corporation to provide any independence allowance payable in respect of the previous injury; or
- (b) direct the insurer to provide any lump sum compensation or independence allowance payable in respect of the subsequent injury.

298 Work-related gradual process, disease, or infection involving exposure before 1 April 2002

- (1) This section applies if a claimant suffers a personal injury caused by a work-related gradual process, disease, or infection on or after 1 April 2002.
- (2) If an employment task referred to in section 30(2) was performed by the claimant or the claimant was employed in an environment referred to in that provision, at any time on or after 1 July 1999 and before 1 July 2000, the Corporation is entitled to recover some or all of the costs of providing entitlements to the claimant from the insurer who insured the claimant's employer or, in the case of a self-employed person, the insurer who was the insurer of the self-employed person, at that time under the Accident Insurance Act 1998.

- (3) The amount that the Corporation may recover is—

$$(a \div b) \times \text{total costs}$$

where—

- a is the period of time employed in the employment referred to in subsection (2) on or after 1 July 1999 and before 1 July 2000 when the insurer was the employer's or self-employed person's insurer; and
- b is the total period of time the claimant was employed in the employment referred to in subsection (2) (including the time before 1 July 1999).

- (4) Such a claimant is entitled to weekly compensation for 24 months from the date of entitlement to the compensation.
- (5) However, the claimant's entitlement to the compensation is dependent on his or her making an election to be entitled, after reaching New Zealand superannuation qualification age, to the compensation, rather than to New Zealand superannuation.
- (6) Subclauses (7) and (8) apply to a claimant who first becomes entitled to weekly compensation—
 - (a) within 12 months before reaching New Zealand superannuation qualification age; or
 - (b) on or after reaching New Zealand superannuation qualification age.

 - (b) within 1 month after the claimant has been notified of the amount of the weekly compensation by the Corporation, the reviewer, or the District Court, whichever is applicable in the claimant's case.
- (2) The Corporation may allow a claimant to exercise or revoke an election under clause 52(5) or (8) after the period specified in subclause (1) has ended, but only if the Corporation is satisfied that the claimant's circumstances have changed significantly since the end of the period.

 - (b) the claimant—
 - (i) has survived the personal injury for not less than 28 days; and
 - (ii) is alive when assessed under clause 59; and
 - (c) an assessment carried out under clause 59 establishes that the claimant's personal injury has resulted in a degree of whole-person impairment of 10% or more.
- (2) To avoid doubt, there is no entitlement to lump sum compensation in respect of personal injury suffered before 1 April 2002 or in respect of any subsequent consequences of any such personal injury.

55 Transitional limits on eligibility for lump sum entitlements

- (1) A person who suffers mental injury caused by an act to which section 21(1)(c) applies is not entitled to lump sum compensation for permanent impairment under this schedule if the act last occurred before 1 April 2002.
- (2) A person who suffers personal injury caused by a work-related gradual process, disease, or infection in the circumstances described in section 30(2) is not entitled to lump sum compensation for permanent impairment if one of the following dates preceded 1 April 2002:

- (a) the date on which the person last performed the task or was employed in the environment in those circumstances;
 - (b) the date on which the person first received treatment for the personal injury as that personal injury;
 - (c) the date on which the personal injury first resulted in the person's incapacity.
- (3) A person who suffers treatment injury or personal injury caused by medical misadventure is not entitled to lump sum compensation for permanent impairment under this schedule if the date of the treatment which caused the personal injury was before 1 April 2002.
- (4) If a person's eligibility for lump sum compensation for permanent impairment under this schedule is excluded by this clause and the person has suffered personal injury for which the person has cover because of section 36 or section 37 or section 38, Part 4 of the Accident Insurance Act 1998 applies to the person for the purpose of deciding whether the person has an entitlement to an independence allowance.
- (5) This clause overrides sections 36 to 38.
- (6) Subclauses (2), (4), and (5) apply subject to clauses 55A to 55D.

Schedule 1 clause 55(2)(c): added, on 1 July 2005, by section 60(1) of the Injury Prevention, Rehabilitation, and Compensation Amendment Act (No 2) 2005 (2005 No 45).

55A Certain persons may elect to receive either lump sum compensation or independence allowance: assessment, notification, and election

- (1) The Corporation must, to enable a person to make an election under subclause (4), determine whether the person meets the criteria for entitlement to both lump sum compensation (under clauses 57 to 60) and an independence allowance (under clauses 58 to 60 of Schedule 1 of the Accident Insurance Act 1998).
- (2) However, a determination under subclause (1) is required only if the person—
- (a) suffered a personal injury caused by a work-related gradual process, disease, or infection in the circumstances described in section 30(2); and
 - (b) last performed the task or was employed in the environment in those circumstances before 1 April 2002; and
 - (c) suffered the personal injury on or after the date on which section 33 of the Injury Prevention, Rehabilitation, and Compensation Amendment Act 2008 came into force.

- (3) The Corporation must, after complying with subclause (1),—
- (a) make a decision (which, to avoid doubt, is to be treated as a single decision) as to whether the person has, for the purposes of an election under subclause (4), an entitlement to both lump sum compensation and an independence allowance; and
 - (b) notify the person of its decision, in accordance with section 64, and include with that notification information about—
 - (i) the Corporation’s assessment of the person’s degree of whole-person impairment; and
 - (ii) the amounts of lump sum compensation and independence allowance that the person would, if he or she elected to receive that compensation or allowance, be entitled to receive; and
 - (iii) the Corporation’s estimate of the period for which the person would need to receive an independence allowance for that allowance to equal the value of the lump sum compensation that would be payable to the person, calculated using appropriate actuarial methodology; and
 - (c) inform the person—
 - (i) that he or she is entitled to elect which of the entitlements he or she wishes to receive; and
 - (ii) of the matters specified in subclause (4).
- (4) A person who is assessed as having an entitlement to either lump sum compensation or an independence allowance—
- (a) may, within 60 days of being given notification in accordance with section 64, elect which entitlement he or she wishes to receive; or
 - (b) is, if no election is made within 60 days, deemed to have elected to receive an independence allowance.

54 Transitional provision for disentitlement for certain imprisoned offenders

- (1) To avoid doubt, this Act applies to disentitle a claimant who suffers a personal injury in the circumstances described in section 122 of the principal Act (as substituted by this Act) only if the personal injury was suffered on or after the commencement of this section.
- (2) To avoid doubt, despite the amendment of section 122 of the principal Act by section 13 of this Act, section 122 of the principal Act (as it read immediately before the commencement of this section) continues to apply to a claimant who, before the commencement of this section, suffered a personal injury in the circumstances described in section 122 (as it so read).

55 Claims for personal injury including hearing loss that have been lodged but not decided

- (1) This section applies if, before the commencement of this section,—

58 Calculations of weekly earnings for weekly compensation

To avoid doubt, sections 223(3)(c)(i) and clauses 33, 34, 35, 36, 38, 39, 41, and 42 of Schedule 1 of the principal Act (as amended by this Act) apply to the calculation of weekly earnings for the purposes of weekly compensation that is payable in respect of a period of incapacity that commences only on or after the commencement of this section.

- (3) However, if the calculation of weekly compensation for loss of potential earning capacity in respect of the claimant is, but for subsection (2) and section 59, more favourable to the claimant under clause 47(4) of Schedule 1 of the principal Act (as amended by this Act), then clause 47(4) applies despite subsection (2) and section 59.

61 Abatement of weekly compensation

To avoid doubt, clause 49 of Schedule 1 of the principal Act (as amended by this Act) applies to the abatement of a claimant's weekly compensation in accordance with that clause and clause 51 of Schedule 1 of the principal Act in respect of a period of incapacity that commences only on or after the commencement of this section.
